

Food donations sought for finals week

EQUITY ARCATA

ARCATA – As a final effort of support at the end of this school year, organizers of Home Away From Home are looking for volunteers who can provide snacks for students at the Latinx and African American Centers for Academic Excellence in the coming week of finals. A student’s budget for food can be wearing thin at this time of the year.

Bring baked goods or finger food to the second floor of Nelson Hall East through Thursday, May 16. The centers open at 10 a.m. Parking in the Humboldt State Library parking lot is easiest around noon-time at the metered spaces. Bring any offerings in a cardboard box lined with foil (easily recycled), or food that is store-bought and already in containers.

Insecurity | Resilient students need support

❖ FROM A1

“What we need from the public and what we need from this board, is assistance,” said Johnson, adding that such plans can’t succeed on their own.

He related the situations he’s dealt with, including women with children fleeing from domestic violence and students from areas beyond CR’s Eureka campus sleeping in the woods to be able to make it to classes in the morning.

“Our students are resilient and they’ve shown us that they have the grit to be successful, they just need support,” Johnson said.

Supervisor Estelle Fennell said the county’s Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) has “all sorts of programs that would probably fit into this” and suggested contacting the county’s Housing Trust Fund and Homelessness Solutions Committee, which makes recommendations on criteria and funding for housing projects.

Asked by Supervisor Virginia Bass about state-level assistance, Johnson said there are several legislative bills pending, including one that calls for allowing car-camping students of community colleges to park their vehicles on campus.

Supervisor Mike Wilson said the locations of community college campuses can promote “isolation issues” and he noted that “housing is tied to transportation.” He added that the county can lobby for state assistance directly and through it legislative lobbying firm.

Board Chair Rex Bohn said he’d set up a meeting with DHHS Director Connie Beck, who can “bring her team in and bring in a full myriad of resources that are available.”

He said he’d also set up a meeting with the county’s legislative analysts.

Joe Nash, CR’s vice president of student development, emphasized that the college draws students from within the county. “Even though I’m a Humboldt State grad and I love Humboldt State, our students are local,” he said.

Four arrested after chase, crash

ARCATA POLICE DEPT.

ARCATA – On Saturday May 11 at 2 p.m., the Arcata Police Department responded to the 2600 block of Alliance Road for multiple reports of gunshots fired from a white SUV.

Witnesses also described a blue Toyota Rav4 fleeing the scene, occupied by four black male adults. The Humboldt County Sheriff’s Office located the Rav4 traveling northbound on U.S. Highway 101 and a vehicle pursuit ensued.

The pursuit terminated near the Westhaven Drive off-ramp, when the vehicle traveled over an embankment and crashed. Four male adults fled on foot from the vehicle and were apprehended shortly thereafter.

One of two victims was located, traveling on foot, in the 2200 block of Alliance Road. Officers learned a robbery had just occurred, during a marijuana transaction, inside of a white Volvo SUV.

The gunshots were determined to have been fired inside of the SUV, with no one struck or injured as a result. The owner of the SUV fled and was not located.

The following suspects were booked and lodged at the Humboldt County Correctional Facility, on the following charges:

Missouri resident Devion Tyrell Thompson, 21: robbery; conspiracy; resisting arrest.

Bohn | Resignation calls give way to outpouring of support

❖ FROM A1

when Bohn was told of its authenticity, he jokingly asked if those dining on the ethnic fare would be compelled to “go out and steal hubcaps.”

At the April 16 meeting, multiple community members described Bohn as a racist and demanded he set an example by resigning. At one point the chair of the county’s Green Party told him, “Resign or we’ll recall you.”

But residents of Bohn’s district came to his defense at the next board meeting, on May 7.

Scores of them rallied in front of the county administrative building, upholding “We Stand With Rex!” signs. Several spoke during the meeting’s public comment session, suggesting that the controversy is being overplayed.

“The level of social bullying, name-calling, ridicule and calls for resignation are completely over the top for what actually happened,” said Ferndale resident Lori Gill. “I came here today because I am fed up with witnessing a decent man being trashed.”

She added that such condemnation promotes suppression of free speech and is “becoming all too prevalent in our society.” A recall effort is sure to fail, Gill said, because “in (Bohn’s) district, the vast majority of people are thinkers and not feelers.”

Hank Beck, whose letter in the Times-Standard editorial section spurred the supportive rally, said Bohn has motivated him to be “a better supporter” of community groups.

“When we talk about action rather than just words – Mister Bohn, thank you very much, we appreciate you,” he continued. “The actions you take mean a lot, to a lot of people.”

Another Bohn supporter noted the rally’s robust attendance and Bohn’s pending re-election, telling him that “it’s a good time to run again.”

He also said he was on the receiving end of jokes about “Okies” when he first moved to California but “I gave as well as I took” and all involved dealt with it cheerfully.

“I think we’ll all survive little statements that we make, little jokes that we make,” he continued. “I really encourage you to continue to be yourself,” he told Bohn.

Kent Sawatzky, a frequent commenter at board meetings, said he’s “had enough of this political correctness, where I cannot say what I want to – I won’t be bullied by people like those who attended the last meeting.”

Sawatzky rejected descriptions of Humboldt County as an unwelcoming place for non-whites. “If anybody comes to Humboldt County and feels like they’re not accepted, not welcome here, I’m going to put it all on them,” he said. “It really is – everybody can fit in here, we’re all accepted.”

None of Bohn’s critics spoke and, as with most public comment sessions, Bohn and other supervisors didn’t discuss what had been said.

BRAE BRIEFING Deputy Director of Community Services Julie Neander met with Sunny Brae residents last week at their eponymous neighborhood park to discuss possible improvements. The two dozen or so neighbors who turned out weren't interested in any major installations like children's playsets, noting that those are available elsewhere in the neighborhood. Rather, they asked for regular maintenance, removal of poison oak, a few more trails, a handrail for the steps, a Dogipot bag dispenser for proper disposal of dog poop, a bike rack, improved handicapped accessibility and possibly some historic or environmental signage. Residents offered to pitch in on volunteer workdays to spruce up the park, and suggested getting Sunny Brae Middle School involved.

Trinidad | ‘Respect is earned, not given’

member who has noticed some troubling public reaction trends.

“In this project, it really brought to the front prejudicial statements, erroneous beliefs, misguided facts and sometimes even outright lies,” she told supervisors. “People don’t bother to find out or truly engage – yes, some do but a lot of the detractors don’t and there has been plenty of opportunity for public comment.”

David Tyson, CEO for the Trinidad Rancheria Economic Development Corporation, said the Rancheria has held numerous community, town hall, City Council and private meetings on the project.

He added that the Rancheria has responded to 368 public comments.

A delay isn’t feasible, he said, as “time kills deals and in this case, time is money.”

The Rancheria needs a Coastal Commission consistency determination in order to secure loan funding.

Madrone noted that the BIA asked for delays related to water supply information twice in the last two months. Emphasizing the importance of allowing local access to the commission hearing, he said, “I don’t know why we wouldn’t want to do that, unless we really don’t want the project in front of the local community – maybe that’s what we’re looking to do.”

That comment provoked a response from Supervisor Virginia Bass. “I hesitate to say this a little bit but I almost feel like we’re being blackmailed, to use a very strong term,” she said. “By, basically, making comments that ‘we should all be supporting this because’ -- it almost makes it sound like you’re painting us into a corner for not agreeing to send the letter.”

Saying that Madrone’s comments were “not necessarily the best way to frame things,”

Bass told him, “We can talk later though.”

Madrone, who began his first term last January, suggested that he’s not getting the response that’s customary when supervisors make requests related to the desires of district residents and added that it’s not the first time it’s happened.

“It feels more political to me than really weighing in on the side of the community and weighing in on the side of the district representative as far as where they’re coming from, knowing their district best,” he said. “I haven’t gotten that kind of respect yet so I’m looking forward to that, so I think that’s really what you’re hearing, is some frustration on my part and it’s not blackmailing, it’s speaking from the heart and really trying to tell you where I’m coming from on this.”

Madrone’s motion to approve the letter was seconded by Supervisor Mike Wilson, who had said that sending the letter didn’t seem controversial since it was only a request. But further discussion indicated looming disapproval.

Board Chair Rex Bohn told Madrone, “Respect is earned, not given, and I hope you know that.”

“I do hear all this sort of therapy that’s going on here,” said Supervisor Estelle Fennell. “But the bottom line is there are members of your district here today to speak to us and that’s who we’ve heard from – the tribe.”

Since the timing is important to the tribe and there’s indication that the BIA won’t favor a delay, Fennell said it would be “disrespectful” for the board to send the letter.

Facing disagreement from three of his colleagues on the board, Madrone rescinded his motion. He has the option of sending the letter on his own.

FOREST FIVESOME Arcata’s Forest Management Committee (FMC) met briefly at City Hall last week, above, before traipsing out into the newly acquired, 49-acre Forsyth Tract. The newest addition to the Arcata Community Forest, located just east of Humboldt State University, has been privately owned for many years and presents many issues and opportunities. It’s been heavily logged, and includes many trails and roads that will need upgrades. It is home of the well-known “Jump Trail,” so called because of the many ramps and other features constructed by mountain bike enthusiasts. It also hosts the “Par Infinity” disc golf course. Said FMC Member Michael Furniss, “We know how to restore it and implement best practices to keep it healthy and productive and still support community uses and grow redwood. It’s ‘Site 2’ forest land, which means good soils, it’s super productive; the redwoods grow big and fast here.” Future improvements will be guided by the FMC, which meets monthly, and the public is always invited. The acquisition was made possible thanks to grants received from the USDA – Community Forest and Open Space Conservation Program, California State Parks – Habitat Conservation Fund, CAL FIRE Forest Health-California Climate Investments and local donations made to the Humboldt Area Foundation-Arcata Forest Fund.

County planners endorse ag, timber zone changes

Daniel Mintz

MAD RIVER UNION

HUMBOLDT – Approving changes to the Agricultural-Exclusive (AE) and Timber Production Zone (TPZ) zoning categories, Humboldt County’s Planning Commission has finished its review of the first phase of General Plan rezoning.

Although there was some debate about new aspects of AE and TPZ zoning, the commission unanimously voted at its May 2 meeting to recommend their approval to the Board of Supervisors.

The AE zoning text changes include a significant safeguard against conversion – upping the zone’s minimum parcel size from 20 acres to 60 acres. A single family house is allowed on each AE parcel, with two secondary units allowed on parcels over 40 acres.

Farm-related housing for workers is separate from general residential use. Thirty-six units of farm housing are allowed on a 60-acre AE parcel.

The TPZ changes include adding allowances for public recreation and visitor-serving uses. Maintained in the zoning text is the existing ability to develop residences on a scale of one residence per 40-acre parcel, with secondary units allowed on parcels over 160 acres.

The housing allowances triggered the most discussion among commissioners.

The AE category’s expanded minimum parcel size was questioned by Commissioner Peggy O’Neill, who said owners of smaller ag parcels should have the ability to add residences for family members.

Planning Director John Ford said the General Plan offers some housing leniency for the AE and TPZ zones, making residential development a principally-permitted use versus requiring permits that trigger commission hearings.

“There were some trade-offs and part of the trade-offs is the lot size, so prime ag land doesn’t get subdivided into smaller and smaller pieces,” he said.

Commissioner Noah Levy supported the lot size increase. He said residential development has occurred “out in the woods and on the farms and there’s been a real cost to that.”

O’Neill said she owns a 40-acre parcel and “I know if I want to have a farm on it I may want to put a house there for one of my kids or maybe two of my kids – and I know it could all still work.”

But Ford discouraged the commission from proposing changes, saying the General Plan’s content needs to be implemented and “to a certain extent, those decisions have already been made.”

During a public comment session, McKinleyville resident Joyce King questioned the new public access and recreation component of the TPZ zoning.

King is a board member of the McKinleyville Land Trust, which owns a spruce forest tract of over 20 acres on the Mad River Bluffs. The forested area is preserved for wildlife habitat and allows public access via hiking trails, and King said it’s apparent that the two don’t mix.

Trail users can bring off-leash dogs and King said that “since that piece has been opened up for public access, we have lost a lot of wildlife.”

She added that “the neighbors around there agree that a lot of the wildlife has gone from that area -- this was a prime example of the little bit of remaining coastal spruce forest and it’s changed just in the last 20 years.”

Further discussion from commissioners was focused on an action they took at the previous meeting – to recommend elimination of a new Timber-Exclusive (TE) category due to its 40-acre minimum parcel size and single family home construction allowance.

Levy asked for clarification on how the recommendation will be handled, as the TE zone is proposed as a replacement for the county’s high-volume Unclassified zone category.

Richardson said the recommendation will be brought to the Board of Supervisors and “we’ll see where the board wants to go with it.”

The board will also have to contend with a related issue – if the TE zone isn’t implemented, Unclassified zones will default to AE zoning, which allows cannabis cultivation. There may be pushback on expanding the areas where cannabis production can occur.

Levy clarified that his intent in joining the recommendation to reject the TE zone was “not to eliminate that but simply to modify it and attach stricter conditions to it.”

The next step in the commission’s rezoning review is to consider a more specific piece of planning – the General Plan’s rezoning land use maps.

❖ WHEN MOVING

Don't dump and run – here's how to ethically get rid of your stuff

CITY OF ARCATA

ARCATA – The City of Arcata Environmental Services Department is encouraging community members to strive for zero waste when relocating in or outside of Arcata.

The countdown toward the end of the semester has begun, and many residents and students find themselves on the move when the spring semester concludes. Historically, this time of year means more unwanted furniture, household items, clothing and books being left on street corners or sidewalks as individuals relocate.

Most members of our community are unaware that free boxes and dumped furniture are a violation of the California Penal Code and Arcata's Municipal Code, and these violations can create unnecessary damage to our environment.

The City of Arcata is striving to achieve zero waste in our community, and there are many other options for residents, students and landlords to consider before dumping unwanted household items and furniture on community sidewalks. Many items can be reused and recycled, so they do not end up in a landfill becoming a burden to our environment.

The city is offering these zero waste moving tips to community members:

1. Humboldt State University hosts its "Donation Dash" every year! HSU students living on and off campus can drop off unwanted clothes, bedding, dishes, unopened food, books, small appliances and electronics at the College Creek Donation Station located in the campus parking lot across from the Marketplace. There will also be drop-off stations for on-campus residents at The Hill Quad and at Creekview Apartments. This opportunity to donate to local charities is open to current HSU students only. Students living off campus must be able to provide their HSU Student ID at the donation station when dropping off unwanted items. This year, the "Donation Dash" donation stations will be open:

- Wednesday, May 15 and Thursday, May 16 from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.
- Friday, May 17 from 9 a.m. to midnight

• Saturday, May 18 from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

2. Sell or give away unwanted household goods on Craigslist at humboldt.craigslist.org/. Mattresses are a particularly hot Craigslist item and nice ones get snapped up right away!

3. Sell or donate unwanted books, and sell unwanted clothing to local businesses.

• Tin Can Mailman, located at 1000 H Street, will buy up to two bags or boxes of clean books and textbooks for cash or store credit, in addition to accepting donations.

• Willow and Rags, located at 761 8th Street, accepts consignments for gently used clothing, up to 20 items per month.

4. Donate unwanted unopened food items to Food For People. foodforpeople.org.

5. Contact local thrift stores and recycling centers. Some will pick up sofas and refrigerators, plus, everything sold in local thrift stores benefits a worthy nonprofit.

6. For tips on how to find local thrift stores and recycling centers, visit cityofarcata.org/275/Zero-Waste.

• Print the Don't Dump & Run brochure to use as a guide. Brochures may also be picked up at City Hall located at 736 F St.

True North hosting town hall on housing

TRUE NORTH The Changing Face of Transitional Housing: Moving Toward Solutions

EUREKA — True North Organizing Network is hosting a Town Hall, "The Changing Face of Transitional Housing: Moving Toward Solutions."

The event will be held Saturday, May 18 from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. at Christ Episcopal Church, 625 15th St., Eureka. Childcare will be provided and community members may continue the conversation at the conclusion of the meeting.

The two-hour program will include testimony from both those who have worked hard to make transitional housing possible and those who can and have benefited from their help.

True North Board Member and leader Pastor Kathryn Dunning of Eureka First United Methodist Church said that she, "looks forward to more people hearing the stories of how various forms of transitional housing are beneficial to vulnerable persons and to the well-being of our whole community."

True North Eureka Local Organizing Committee leader Dr. Ashley London Bacchi says that after the group's nine months of research, it has become clear that these testimonies are necessary.

"Many have negative perceptions of what transitional housing is and don't understand why it is needed to create a strong and healthy community for everyone."

Dr. London Bacchi says the program is designed to, "address and dispel common stigmas." True North Eureka LOC leader Catherine Peacock says she looks forward to the chance to "explore different options for transitional housing."

Successes mentioned will include an overview of the programs provided by the North Coast Veterans' Resource Center (NVRC), along with testimony from a participating veteran.

Attendees will also hear testimony from community members speaking to the success and positive impact of Betty Kwan Chinn's Container Village.

Chinn will speak to how a transitional housing component would complete her model.

True North leaders are committed to long-term work on transitional housing and to finding solutions to housing issues in our region, and invite the community to join in the efforts, and will outline some opportunities to do so at the end of the event.

Says Dr. London Bacchi, "we hope that people will come with an open mind, curiosity, and hope for a more just and sustainable future for Eureka!"

What is PUBLIC SAFETY POWER SHUTOFF?

Public Safety Power Shutoff
or PSPS is a precautionary safety measure that may proactively turn off power lines when extreme fire danger conditions are forecast. We will do this to reduce wildfire risks and keep our customers safe.

To receive important outage alerts, update your contact information at pge.com/mywildfirealerts.

What criteria does PG&E consider when calling a PSPS?

No single factor will initiate a Public Safety Power Shutoff as each situation is unique. The factors we generally consider include:

- A Red Flag Warning declared by the National Weather Service
- Forecasts of strong winds and wind gusts
- Low humidity levels
- Critically dry vegetation that could fuel a wildfire
- And on-the-ground, real-time observations from PG&E field crews

In the interest of public safety, we continue to update and refine our criteria and protocols on an ongoing basis.

How will I know if a PSPS has been called in my neighborhood?

Because extreme weather threats can change quickly, our goal is to provide notice through phone calls, emails and text messages to customers 48 hours in advance, again at 24 hours and again just prior to turning off the power for safety. Updates will also be shared through social media, local news, radio and pge.com until the time power is restored. To receive important outage alerts, update your contact information at pge.com/mywildfirealerts.

How can I prepare for a PSPS?

We advise you to think in advance about your family's needs and how you might be impacted in the event of a power shutoff—or for any emergency.

- Do you have a personal safety plan for all members of your family, including pets?
- If you own a generator, is it ready to operate safely?
- Do you know how to open your garage door manually?
- Do you have cash and a full tank of gas, in the event ATMs and gas stations are unavailable?
- Are your mobile phones fully charged?

CREATURE DISCOMFORTS Protesters greeted the arrival of the Culpepper & Merriweather Circus at Redwood Acres Friday. Organized via the “Boycott Circus Cruelty in Humboldt” Facebook page, the activists both cite the circus’s checkered past with regard to animal treatment, and oppose on principle the use of wild animals for entertainment. “These wild and domestic animals endure harsh training techniques to force them to perform for the public” said one activist. “They are housed in small quarters with inadequate room to move, and live in unsanitary and inhumane living conditions. While they are not performing, they travel in hot trucks in inadequate living quarters for 32 weeks out of the year, then are forced to perform in 200 towns in 17 different states.” A Culpepper & Meriweather spokesman refuted the accusations, stating, “Our animals are seen by a vet every 30 days and we’re inspected daily by animal control here in California. Everything we do for our animals is completely legal and we exceed the care that is required by the USDA. Anyone who comes and sees our animals for themselves can tell that our animals are happy and healthy.”

A lot of this comes down to oversharing. At top volume. All night long

• Thursday, April 25 2 a.m. “Stop smacking me,” said one of two yellingtons on Union Street who, despite the passions of the moment, cared enough to use a slightly evocative verb.

7:16 p.m. The ridonkulous “who’d fall for that?” Social Security phone scam netted another victim, ensuring its continuation. The scammer reaped some $2,900 in Google Play cards from some working-class person whom they’d frightened into compliance, and may be honored for this accomplishment with a plaque and engraved cufflinks at the annual ScamCo company dinner.

• Friday, April 26 1:17 p.m. Someone took $313 in upscale eco-duds from a Plaza shop, and are likely envied by their peers for the stylish, costly and ethically sourced garments. Basking in this admiration, only they know they’re living a fashion lie; well, them and everyone who watches the store’s security video.

• Saturday, April 27 3:39 a.m. At a downtown donut shop, a man with unconventional glazing – blood all over his face – was asked to leave, but refused the request and was arrested.

10:54 a.m. A nimrod imbroglio on Samoa Boulevard saw a roommate yelling bad things at her co-habitant through a door and trash bags hurled down a stairwell.

3 p.m. Two youths perched on the rooftop of a silver sedan at a K Street car wash, carpeing their diems by swigging from a large bottle of tequila and blasting the ’hood with throbulent “rap-style” music of the kind so popular with today’s young people.

• Sunday, April 28 12:58 p.m. A child roller skating in the Arcata Community Park encountered a black-haired, bearded man who tried to grab her.

5:38 p.m. An argument could be heard in the background as a man called from the transit center asking for help. Oh by the way, he added, I’m wetting myself. He was arrested for public drunkenness.

5:55 p.m. Another free-range whizzard bled his lizard all over a children’s playset at an S Street elementary school. He was interviewed.

7:21 p.m. Even if a man’s camouflage shorts and vest had rendered his central torso invisible to onlookers, they wouldn’t have, and didn’t conceal his sinister extremities ripping off beer from a Uniontown supermarket and his subsequent arrest.

• Monday, April 29 8:37 a.m. A man in a wheelchair made it his mission to give patients entering a 10th Street health clinic a thorough yelling-at. He was moved along.

10:07 a.m. Just down the block, a man in a wheelchair positioned in the middle of the street screamed at passersby, seeming to chase them. He was moved along.

11:33 a.m. A man at Ninth and G streets wearing a “viking hat” yelled at passersby amid a miasma of personal belongings scattered about the sidewalk. He too was moved along.

12:43 p.m. A man in a wheelchair outside an Arcata Heights bank wore a helmet, but augmented its protective powers by placing a plastic bag over his head.

4:26 p.m. A man in a wheelchair outside an H Street business office took to scrawling on the wall there.

4:39 p.m. An apparent shift change at 4:30 p.m. saw loon-dues passed off to a man in blue sweatpants, who tackled the assignment with teal-trousered zeal. After a warm-up bout of yelling on the Plaza, he launched himself into H Street traffic, slaloming among the cars as he pitched his mobile hissy.

4:49 p.m. A man wearing blue pants and no shirt yelled at Arcata’s ever-put upon passersby at Ninth and F streets, then headed toward the cyclonic dingbat vortex known as the transit center.

4:51 p.m. But first, blue man paused to take off what remaining clothing he had on and almost got into a fight with someone, then was arrested.

7:31 p.m. A doorhandle-tryer can only yearn for the score one lucked into in an Alliance Road apartment building parking lot. There, an unlocked car door opened wide to a trove of someone else’s wealth – a purse, wallet, phone, plus credit and Social Security cards. Somehow the slithy tove bungled his nouveau riches, because the phone later called 911.

9:16 p.m. A live band’s musical stylings at Buttermilk Lane and Crescent Way are an ongoing problem because long hair, don’t care.

9:46 p.m. A drunk driver barreled up H, against the grain, the wind, the law and the one-way sign, and if only there’d been a cop around. Oh wait, there was! Arrested.

10:29 a.m. An unexpected knock on a Heather Lane front door included the peephole being covered from the outside, leaving the resident little incentive to throw wide the door.

10:02 p.m. A man shoved a blind person into a gas station bathroom in Valley West, then ran off toward the freeway.

10:30 p.m. A kindly stranger walked the blind guy back to the tent he was living in. The man said that the person he was staying with wasn’t being very kind to him.

• Tuesday, April 30 9:30 a.m. A man in camouflage shorts who made off with two bottles o’ grog from a Uniontown-supermarket get got as far as the disreputable breezeway before being arrested.

1:34 p.m. A Union Street apartment dweller enjoyed a leisurely afternoon on her back patio with her laptop computer, right up until the upstairs neighbor dumped water off his balcony, drenching the woman and rendering her computer inoperable.

• Wednesday, May 1 8:55 a.m.

Former employees of a Valley West motel were seen lingering near a storage area, then scampering away across a field. One of them may have been involved in prior thefts from rooms there.

• Thursday, May 2 4:41 p.m. When a man threatened to kill his girlfriend’s dogs, her grandma became concerned.

• Wednesday, May 3 12:07 a.m. A woman well-encased in today’s perforative haute couture leapt from a taxicab near Westwood Center and ran off into the darkness. Even in darkness, the blonde hair, tattoos, lip and ear bling should have stood out somewhat amid the 1950s-era suburban homes, even despite the camouflage pants, but her friends didn’t know the area.

4:37 p.m. For reasons unknown, a man in red shorts with a fluffy white dog showed several employees at a 13th Street store the porn videos on his phone. They asked him to withdraw from the scene, and though initially he wouldn’t pull out, he eventually did.

6 p.m. A drunk who’d peed on a downtown hardware store then argued with employees as he kicked his dog, and got a talking-to from police about his indefensible actions.

6:40 p.m. An alleged man was seen walking while punching and kicking his dog at 11th and K streets.

• Saturday, May 4 12:06 a.m. Yelling with bonus screaming at no additional charge.

12:24 a.m. Yelling.

1:35 a.m. Yelling, plus the screaming option.

1:37 a.m. Yelling, with value-added bottle throwing.

12:48 p.m. Yelling.

5:28 p.m. A woman in a pink shorts and purple pajama pants was passed out drunk near the ballpark gate.

5:44 p.m. A man wearing several layers of clothing and a “green mohawk helmet” wandered in and out of a downtown hardware store, wouldn’t leave when asked, then did.

6:02 p.m. Despite being attacked outside a Valley West motel by someone wielding a full beer can as a weapon, the victim was uninjured.

• Sunday, May 5 1:05 a.m. A Granite Avenue party featured loud musical merriment and in the backyard, use of blap-pety-blubbity punching bags.

11:35 a.m. A woman sat on the sidewalk at fifth and E streets, pouring wine all over the road and herself.

6:36 p.m. Appearances aside, a man in a camouflage bandanna didn’t really have a gap where his brain was s’posta be, though his behavior augured otherwise as he got pushy and agressy at a chronically dickweed-embattled Valley West bus stop.

11:58 p.m. An H Streeter again complained that he couldn’t dislodge The San Francisco Ninja Society from his residence, and that they’ve been there 20 years.

• Monday, May 6 5:33 a.m. A man at the hospital for falling off a barstool took off toward the freeway on foot.

9:12 a.m. A J Street café objected to the appetite-suppressing three-vehicle caravan community that had sprung up out front, consisting of a school bus, Chevy van and Arizona-plated Winnebago, all aswarm with individs coming and going, in and out.

12:43 p.m. A woman received third-hand information that a student with a history of mental illness is refusing to eat because the food is demonic. His decisionmaking wasn’t noticeably enhanced by the acid-drop a week or so previous.

• Tuesday, May 7 11:45 a.m. The guy who keeps busting into a valley West business’s dumpster is a TV star of sorts – on the store video security system.

12:34 p.m. A Sorrel Circle resident repulsed a phone scammer’s telephone attempt to scare them into divulging personal info over imaginary Social Security issues.

The joy of ticks is overrated – here’s how to outsmart the little buggers

CITY OF ARCATA

ARCATA – The City of Arcata Environmental Services Department would like to remind the community that tick season is quickly approaching, and they are offering the public some tips on how to prevent and care for tick bites.

Ticks are tiny, spider-like bugs that attach themselves to the skin of people and animals. While many ticks are not harmful, some can transmit disease. Only one tick found locally can transmit the bacterium that causes Lyme disease – the Western blacklegged tick.

Avoiding tick bites is the easiest way to avoid tick-borne disease. The Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends the following precautions to prevent tick bites:

- Avoid wooded and bushy areas with high grass and leaf litter.
- When hiking, be sure to stay on cleared paths and designated trails.
- Wear protective clothing when out-

• Speak to your veterinarian about the best tick-prevention methods available for your pets.

If you find a tick on yourself or a pet, please follow these steps:

- Use fine-tipped tweezers to grasp the tick as close to the surface of the skin as possible. Pull upward with steady, even pressure. Do not jerk or twist the tick. Make sure the entire tick has been removed, including the head.
- Once the tick has been removed, clean the area and your hands with soap and water.
- If you develop tick-borne illness symptoms such as fever, chills, a rash at the site of the tick bite, or unusual aches and pains up to 30 days after experiencing a tick bite, consult your medical provider immediately and let them know you were bitten by a tick.

For more information regarding ticks and other tick-borne diseases, please visit the CDC’s website at cdc.gov/ticks/index.html.

The HSU administration's unethical, contradictory actions on KHSU

So many outstanding KHSU questions

Dear Chancellor White,
I've been quite disheartened by your response to the KHSU fiasco at Humboldt State University. You claim that the actions of President Rossbacher and her henchman Vice President Craig Wruck are in the "fiscal interests of the university."
May I ask how you came to that conclusion? Was it based on the review/audit from your office? Because if it was, I can tell you that review/audit was a shoddy, shallow piece of work full of incorrect information. Not only did the reviewers fail to interview people with the most historic points of view and institutional memory, they completely left out hours of testimony from people they did interview.
I would like to be directed to the complaint/grievance process regarding the review. I want to see their notes and hear their recordings. I believe someone directed them to leave out valuable information that did not fit into the plans that were already under development (please see HSU's excellent reporting in the Lumberjack for some background).
You cannot be unaware that the fiscal problems of KHSU were entirely engineered by Mr. Wruck and his henchman, Peter Fretwell. The station was in no way the kind of fiscal trouble that resulted after the firing of Katie Whiteside, and the subsequent firing of all station staff. I myself was a $35/month sustaining member, and I froze that after Ms. Whiteside's dismissal. I gave $100 at the recent pledge drive (which was done under absolute false pretenses). And like so many in the community, I was prepared to resume, at an increased rate, my sustaining membership upon the firing of Peter Fretwell. Oh, about that...

❖ LETTERS

I am/was a member of the Community Advisory Board. I sat in a room with Dr. Rossbacher and Mr. Wruck on April 10. Do you believe it is professional or ethical to lie as part of the job of university president and vice-president? Because that is exactly what the two of them did. They bald-faced, outright lied to the nine of us sitting there. They spun falsehoods and smiled. I shook their hands.
If you think it is OK for a person in that position to lie, then I question your suitability for your job. I have to take ethics training every year at my job; perhaps it should be required for all administrators.
The HSU academic senate has voiced its displeasure at the manner in which this occurred. The student body and the community have done so as well. Mr. Wruck, again spinning falsehoods, attempted to get the students on his side, only to be revealed as a backstabbing schemer. He claimed to want more student involvement in KHSU, yet he destroyed a half semester's work of the student interns, who can't get credit for the academic work they did because they no longer have instructors.

They have put research grants in peril because they've notified the various grantors that former KHSU employees can not be part of the grant seeking process, even though those employees were instrumental in the projects.
It remains mind boggling to me that a politician as yourself (because let's face it, your job is political, not academic) doesn't value the communities in which your institutions are placed. While exploring the Chancellor's website, I saw a large section on "Community Partnerships," so apparently you wish for prospective students to think that the local communities are important.
Yet here, in Humboldt County, Dr. Rossbacher has managed to destroy three major Town and Gown connections in the past few years. First, the off-campus art gallery, last known as the Third Street Gallery. Then the football program. And in the same year, but with virtually no warning (unlike the year reprieve given to football) – KHSU.
I will close with telling you that I came to HSU in 1975. I listened to KHSU from my first days in the dorms, and then, when I ended up staying here and raising a family, wherever I lived. I donated when the fund drives started, first as a single parent out of my waitressing tips. As I got older and became an empty nester, I started volunteering and increasing my donations. KHSU became an inherent part of my day to day life in Eureka.

Your ongoing support of Lisa Rossbacher and Craig Wruck's Machiavellian betrayal sullies your own legacy as Chancellor.
Please reconsider. Be a hero in this story, rather than a cohort of miscreants and carpetbaggers.
Sincerely,
Barbara A. Boerger, HSU Class of 1980
Arcata

Humboldt is 23 emergency responders stronger after rigorous training

COMMUNITY EMERGENCY RESPONSE TEAM
Humboldt County has graduated 18 new CERT instructors!
Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) volunteers undergo at least 23 hours of emergency response training.
These volunteers are your neighbors who are prepared to assist their communities until first responders can arrive after a major emergency event, such as an earthquake or wildfire.
Up until this week, the number of local basic CERT classes being offered was limited not by a lack of demand (there are currently over 200 people on the waiting list for CERT training classes) but by the small number of available qualified instructors.

But that is about to change.
After three days of rigorous training a few weekends ago, 18 Humboldt and Del Norte CERT members have completed CERT's Train the Trainer course and have now become fully qualified CERT instructors.
Participants came from CERT teams throughout the area, including Arcata, Blue Lake, Blue Lake Rancheria, Humboldt Bay Fire, Humboldt County DHHS, McKinleyville, Hoopa Fire, Tolowa Dee-Ni' Nation, Bridgeville Community Center, and southern Humboldt.
The intensive three-day course was coordinated by Linda Nellist, Humboldt CERT Coalition lead instructor; and team-taught by Linda, Dorie Lanni, emergency services manager, Humboldt County Office of Emergency Services; and Neal O'Haire, national CERT instructor trainer and former senior emergency services coordinator with the Governor's Office of Emergency Services, Coastal Region.

The course was hosted by the Blue Lake Rancheria.
The basic 23-hour CERT course is offered free to interested community members.
For more information, visit humboldtcert.com; to have your name added to the interest list to be notified of upcoming classes, please contact Linda Nellist at humboldtcert@gmail.com.

McKinleyville Pop-Up Museum opens Friday

MAD RIVER UNION
 MCKINLEYVILLE — Volunteers this week are putting the finishing touches on exhibits in the McKinleyville Pop-Up Museum in anticipation of its grand opening on Friday, May 17 from 6 to 9 p.m. The temporary museum is located near the World's Largest Totem Pole at the McKinleyville Shopping Center, 1520 City Center Rd. The opening will begin with a Wiyot blessing, followed by raffles and live music by Vive Dulce. At 7:30 p.m., a group of Humboldt State students will give a presentation in one of the museum's rooms on the future of the McKinleyville Town Center.

‘A smorgasbord’
 The temporary museum, which will be open through June 9, is located in a multi-room, 8,000-square-foot building provided to the community free of charge by the owners of the McKinleyville Shopping Center. The exhibits are a “smorgasbord of different subjects,” said volunteer Kelley Garrett. Originally, Garrett said, the idea was to have a small museum. But when the shopping center offered such a large building, that changed.

“We went “Wow! What can we do?” Garrett said. “We went full bore.”

History room
 While most of the exhibits are being set up by people with little or no experience with museums, the McKinleyville Pop-Up Museum is fortunate to have Sherie Newell setting up the history room. Newell is retired from the Oakland Museum of California. “She’s a professional,” Garrett said. “The rest of us are entrepreneurs with big ideas, with heart.” The history room includes native jewelry, baskets, paintings, the stories of local families and more.

Art room
 Local professional artist John Wesa offered to hang the art in the art room, which includes more than 40 works from about 30 different artists, all from McKinleyville. The artists range in age from 12 to over 80. The exhibit includes fine art and folk art in a variety of different mediums.

‘Your Town, Your Newspapers’
 At the front of the museum is an exhibit titled “Your Town, Your Newspapers: History of McKinleyville Newspapers,” put together by Mad River Union Editor and Publisher Jack Durham and his wife, Kim Durham. “McKinleyville has a rich newspaper history,” Jack Durham said.

“There were a lot of ink-stained dreamers who wanted to give the town a voice. Some of the newspapers lasted years, but most went belly up in a year or less. It’s always been a tough business.” The exhibit includes a timeline of McKinleyville’s newspaper history, from the Arcata Union, which started in 1886, to the Mad River Union, which serves the town today. The exhibit includes original copies and reproductions of dozens of newspapers. “Looking through these old newspapers, you’ll discover that reporters were writing about the same topics 10, 20 and even 50 years ago that reporters are writing about today,” Durham said. The exhibit will include complimentary copies of the most recent edition of the Mad River Union, as well as the Union’s 2019 calendar, while supplies last.

Town Center
 The idea of creating a museum came about during a meeting of the non-profit McKinleyville Organizing Coalition, according to Twila Sanchez, co-director of the museum. “We were talking about the Town Center ordinance and how to get more people to give input,” Garrett said. The McKinleyville Community Plan, approved in 2002, designates the Town Center as an area stretching from Pierson Park to McKinleyville Avenue, and from Railroad Drive to an area just south of Hiller Road. It also includes the commercial area north of Heartwood Drive where the Burger King and other businesses are located. The Humboldt County Planning Department is going to hold meetings and gather public input on the creation of a Town Center ordinance, which would include rules for future development of the area. The McKinleyville Organizing Coalition came up with the idea of creating a museum, which would draw in community members, who could then learn more about the Town Center and give input and ideas. “People can reflect on the past and present influences on McKinleyville, as well as get inspired to participate in the town’s future,” Garrett said. “We were trying to think of what can build community,” Sanchez said. A museum, she said, is a community builder. A room in the museum is dedicated to the Town Center and will have maps, photos and other information. The museum has a variety of other exhibits from local students and churches. After Friday’s Grand Opening from 6 to 9 p.m., the museum will be open Fridays from 5 to 8 p.m., Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.. through June 9. Entry into the museum is free.

Seriously, it’s really scrumptious

Eureka Natural Foods has local organic quinoa in their bulk section for a very reasonable price, and I am so pleased to have one of the whole grains I crave grown less than 30 miles from where I live. I adore it, actually; with it’s interesting chewy-crunchy texture and earthy, nut-like flavor, not to mention it’s high protein content, it is one of my favorite lunch options. ENF also has raw Spanish peanuts in the bulk section, and with those two cheap and almost non-perishable items in the pantry I can make a fantastically healthy and delicious salad with almost any vegetables that catch my eye. This week, ENF has organic cilantro and parsley at a low price, and with a red bell pepper and a half a bunch of spinach I made this excellent Asian inspired salad in half an hour. Seriously, it’s really scrumptious, and so colorful, it looks as mouth-watering as it is.

Healthy and Really Tasty Quinoa Salad
 (3 servings)

1 cup quinoa
 1 bell pepper, red
 1 bunch each parsley and cilantro
 1/4 cup raw peanuts
 large handful spinach

Sauce

1 tablespoon soy sauce
 1 teaspoon vinegar
 1 tablespoon olive oil
 1 teaspoon sesame oil
 1 teaspoon brown sugar

Make quinoa - in heavy sauce pan, pour 2 cups water over quinoa and bring to high boil. Cook until water boils down to surface of grain, remove from heat, cover and let steam for 10 minutes. Fluff with fork.

Mix sauce ingredients, set aside. Fry raw peanuts in a little oil until just getting colored; remove from heat and set aside.

Wash and finely mince parsley, cilantro and spinach, very finely.

Chop bell pepper into bite sized bits.

Combine all and toss with sauce. YUM.

Mac is big

You probably know Mac’s face, although you may not know who he is. You’ve undoubtedly seen an ad for his concert since there’s a larger-than-life photo of him on a billboard along the northbound U.S. Highway 101 safety corridor outside of Eureka. It shows Mac Demarco, a 20-something dude in a hoodie with a gap-toothed grin, and tells us he has a show in the Sapphire Palace at the Blue Lake Casino today, May 15. Mac popped up in my Facebook feed last week, a post from Happy, an Australian music mag I follow, with a link to his latest YouTubeage. They explain, “Mac DeMarco has shared a new video for [the song] On The Square, the latest taste from his upcoming album Here Comes The Cowboy. We’re not sure what on earth’s going on in this video, but it’s great.”

I don’t know what’s going on either, but the strangeness features Mac in formal dress with a pig mask and a Cthulhu mask building a white brick wall. The music is

Walkability assessment in McKinleyville

A youth-led walkability assessment will be held in McKinleyville to better enable local students to safely walk, bike and roll to school. The assessment is scheduled for today, May 15 from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. beginning in the McKinleyville Union School District conference room behind McKinleyville Middle School, 2285 Central Ave.

Participants will observe traffic conditions during school dismissal at the middle school and in surrounding neighborhoods then use those observations to brainstorm potential solutions to make the area safer and more inviting for all users of the road.

The assessment is coordinated by McKinleyville Middle School Leadership students, the Humboldt County Department of Health & Human Services (DHHS) Public Health Branch and the Natural Resources Services Division of the Redwood Community Action Agency.

This is one of numerous assessments conducted around the county in partnership with the Safe Routes to School Task Force, a coalition of local governments, transportation agencies and community partners that aims to make it safer for children to use active transportation methods to commute to school.

LECTURE AT THE MARSH On Friday, May 17 join Andrea Tuttle for a lecture on "South Georgia Island: What does a small, distant island have to do with the Arcata Marsh?" South Georgia Island lies in the sub-Antarctic, 1,000 miles east of the tip of South America. Fed by nutrient upwelling, it teems with fur seals, penguins, nesting albatross, and other pelagic species. Like Humboldt Bay, it serves as a beacon of hope for successful ecosystem recovery after past exploitation. But also like Humboldt, it faces the overarching threats of climate change. This talk will tell the story of overhunted seals, Norwegian whalers, invasive reindeer and rats, and the aggressive conservation efforts to restore the beautiful wild reserve of today. This free public lecture, starting at 7:30 p.m. at the Arcata Marsh Interpretive Center, is sponsored by Friends of the Arcata Marsh. Seating is limited to the first 50 attendees, on a first-come, first-served basis. For more information, call (707) 826-2359.

Go Postal with Postcards

Bob Doran
MAD RIVER UNION

It was maybe a decade ago when I ran into my friend Steve Lazar at a party at the home of the late Gregg “Vinny” DeVaney. At the time Steve and Vinny were both in a “floorcore” band called Starving Weirdos, but we didn’t talk music.

Steve had something else he wanted to show me that he thought I might find interesting: his latest eBay acquisition, a packet of vintage photo postcards he’d paid a pretty penny for, all of Humboldt County scenes.

I was indeed interested, for many reasons: I’m into local history, I’m a photographer and collect old photos and postcards, and I had written a story about Peter Palmquist selling his massive collection of local photos to the Beinecke Library at Yale.

Our conversation led to a story for the North Coast Journal about deltiologists (postcard collectors) titled “Postcard Kings.” We’ve been talking postcards ever since, in fact almost every time I see Steve he gives me a reproduction of a classic Humboldt card.

I’ve also followed his exploration into a particular photographer, Jesse A. Meiser, who lived and worked in Eureka during the first decade of the 20th Century.

This weekend Lazar will share his research at the Clarke Historical Museum, 240 E St., Eureka, for their Saturday Speaker Series, in a talk titled “Turn of the Century Photographer Jesse Meiser,” at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 18, in celebration of National Photography Month.

Lazar has a day job as a county planner, but he’s obsessed with postcards. He’s created a website, thehumboldtproject.org, and began sharing images from his collection. At this point, he’s scanned over 2,000 postcards with Humboldt images, and he estimates he has another 1,000 to go. He thinks he may have enough, at least for now.

“In early 2018, I stopped collecting and began focusing on researching turn-of-the-century photographers and firms responsible for producing many of the cards in my collection,” he said.

While other local photographers like A.W. Ericson have been well covered by Palmquist, Meiser was not as well known, but Lazar kept seeing his name on cards.

In an attempt to compile, study and present a faithful collection of Meiser’s Humboldt body of work, Lazar visited an assortment of state and national institutions, as well as a number of collections found in private archives.

He called me from the Beinecke Library, and also went to the Huntington and Bancroft libraries and the California State Library in Sacramento.

Then there are card collections in HSU’s Humboldt Room (Genzoli, Carranco and Tim McKay collections), the Humboldt County Historical Society and Clarke Museum.

Lazar notes, “Though Mr. Meiser lived in Humboldt for less than a decade (c1904-1910), he is responsible for an amazingly large percentage of all local postcards that were produced during the earliest years of the medium. Specializing in ‘scenic photography,’ many of his postcards and real photo postcards are highly sought after and are found sprinkled across a number of local private collections.”

So far close to 500 local images produced by Meiser have been uncovered. In sharing his preliminary research, Lazar hopes to inspire other local collectors and historians to contribute and collaborate, and help refine and improve our collective understanding of the work of this important and overlooked Humboldt photographer.

Students support each other after tragedy

As I’m sure many of you already know on May 3 a student at McKinleyville High School committed suicide. Waking up that Friday morning and hearing school was canceled was at first exciting until I learned the reason why – one of our fellow classmates was dead.

Initially, we didn’t know what was going on, or why school was canceled. Within an hour, after many phone calls and group chats with friends and classmates, we soon figured out what was going on. We didn’t even have to read the reports being released by online news sources because we already knew what had happened and we knew who it was.

It was devastating, truly. Over the weekend we were offered grief counseling at various locations, but nothing could have prepared anyone for the following Monday. Walking through the school, the atmosphere was gloomy. A fellow classmate said “it felt like walking through the rain.”

A fellow student said “The day just seemed dull. Not a smile for miles.” There was a police officer standing in the quad that morning just watching. As I walked down the hall I saw girls crying and giving each other big, emotional hugs.

Other than the teachers spending more time outside with their students, and the comforting emails from our school principal, there were two students who in my mind went a little above and beyond to bring comfort to students.

Chelsea Rodriguez and Yuma Hamiche decided they would hand out a special treat candy bars with a special message on them. The message read “Smile, you deserve to be happy, Your important to us all.”

In an interview, Rodriguez said it was Hamiche’s idea, not hers, but they did both purchase the treats. When asked why she said “Some people don’t realize how much they matter to the overall community. Most of the kids we handed them out to I never really talked with before and reaching out gave me more hope that those students will spread it to others.”

The suicide definitely shook the whole community but it also showed us that we have an amazing community that helps each other during a crisis.

Thesis Festival 2019 shows include:

Go Below Yourself

Thrust into a bizarre afterlife, one brave soul attempts to escape. The unsettling inhabitants will play whatever game it takes to make her fall in love with her own darkness. She’s doomed. Nothing will stop her from transforming into the very thing she swore to oppose.

Created and performed by Melanie Schauwecker, Jesse March, Evan Grande, Kathryn Cesarz (USA), and Janie Pinard (Canada).

Visions of A Crying Girl

A couple struggles to connect, holding too tightly to a hope that never was. Through a language of dreams, they work through loss and torment, fighting for a chance to love each other as they once did.

Created and performed by Cleo DeOrio and Jordan Rosin (USA).

Kedma

A woman enters her last stage of life, memories appear and weave the space between sky and earth. A round space, 8 masks, one life journey.

The source of the word KE-D-MA in Hebrew and in Arabic KA-DA-MA means far ancient past and forward future. It also means east, where the sun rises, symbolizing the beginning and end of a day, and the turning of the earth. Kedma will take place outdoors, where it will be performed in the round.

Directed by Idit Kischinovsky (Israel)

Actor-creators: Idit Kischinovsky, Leslie Castellano, and Shawn Wagner (USA). Original music by Maggie Lally (USA).

Deshuesadaro Suite

A dance of bodies looking for themselves. Human fragments willing to be recognized through an incredible journey of reconstruction. A beautiful and ridiculous game of harassment, torture and death.

Created and performed by Alfredo Romero, Carolina Pimentel, and Daniel Loyola (Mexico City).

Teachers honored for excellence

HUMBOLDT COUNTY OFFICE OF EDUCATION

HUMBOLDT – Twelve Humboldt County teachers have received an Excellence in Teaching award and were honored at a reception and ceremony at the Sequoia Conference Center in Eureka where more than 200 colleagues, friends and family members gathered to show their support.

The Humboldt County Office of Education (HCOE) sponsors this celebration annually to celebrate California’s Day of the Teacher by recognizing outstanding educators who were nominated by colleagues, students, parents, or school administrators and then selected to receive this honor.

This year’s Excellence in Teaching Award recipients are:

- Camila Barrett: 9-12th Grade Math Teacher, McKinleyville High School
- Heidi Conzelmann: 4th Grade Teacher, Morris Elementary School
- Heather Gaiera: Instructional Coach/Arts Integration, Eureka City Schools
- John Michael Larson: 5th Grade Teacher, Grant Elementary

School

- Zach Lehner: 7th Grade ELA/Social Studies/Drama Teacher, Zane Middle School
- Holly Matthews: Resource Specialist, McKinleyville Middle School
- Johanna Mauro: 9-12th Grade Art and Photography Teacher/Arts Institute Director, Arcata High School
- Carole Meng: Reading Intervention Teacher, Dow’s Prairie School
- Tim Olson: 9-12th Grade Spanish Teacher, Eureka High School
- Adam Pinkerton: 9-12th Grade Economics and Government Teacher, Arcata High School
- Dana Settlemayer: 7-8th Grade Teacher, Fieldbrook Elementary School
- Linda Stewart: 6-8th Grade Teacher, Peninsula School

The Excellence in Teaching Awards program has been in place since 1986. It recognizes classroom teachers from Kindergarten through 12th grade who have a minimum of five years teaching experience and have been identified as exemplary by their coworkers, students, or school communities.

“This peer-driven program is a special opportunity to acknowledge the dedication, expertise, and commitment to student well-being and achievement Humboldt County teachers have for our children,” said Dr. Chris Hartley, superintendent of schools. “Award winners are truly exceptional and inspiring. They demonstrate motivation while providing relevant and meaningful learning experiences for all students.”

This year’s event included music accompaniment by Eureka High Students and hors d’oeuvres prepared and served by Fortuna and Arcata high school culinary programs. Video introductions were created for each honoree that showcased their style, enthusiasm, and talents.

Three additional educators were also celebrated for receiving a Jean Olson Career Achievement award, recognizing an exceptional veteran or retired teacher for their lifelong contributions to public education, children, and the community.

This award was first established in 1995, and in 1998 it was dedicated to the memory of longtime County Board of Education Member and President, Jean Olson, who passed away in that year. Larry Olson was a guest this year and offered a touching tribute to Jean and her many years of dedicated service.

Jani Ayers, Roseann Buchner and Sandra Close were the recipients of the Jean Olson Career Achievement honor.

Ayers, a TK/Kindergarten teacher at Alice Birney has a teaching career spanning 39 years. She states that she’s always been particularly fond of our youngest learners and feels teaching is all about relationships. She credits her colleagues for their support and says her proudest moments are when her students realize for themselves that they have accomplished a task or met a goal they didn’t think they could do and she’s able to celebrate the joy of that achievement with them.

Buchner, a 1st grade teacher at Washington School has been teaching for 34 years. She noted that she was inspired to teach by her parents, who were lifelong learners, and something she’s continued to strive for. She especially loves teaching early readers and watching that growth and progress from week to week. The enthusiasm of her students is what she claims keeps her motivated and she loves being part of their learning.

Close, a K-2nd grade teacher at Scotia School for 37 years, credits her student’s excitement and willingness to learn as a key factor that brings her joy. She believes reading is especially foundational at this age and she strives to tailor the books in her classroom to what her students are interested in. She notes that when students are interested in particular stories, they can come alive and take them on incredible journeys, which encourages a love of reading.

All of the teachers nominated humbly acknowledged how grateful they were for this honor and the importance of having the support of their families and colleagues. There was a consistent recognition that there are so many excellent educators throughout Humboldt County and how proud they were to be in such great company.

The 2019-20 Humboldt County Teacher of the Year will be selected from among the Excellence in Teaching Award recipients. For more information, please contact Stacy Young at syoung@hcoe.org or (707) 445-7077.

The Hum | Latin Pepper to spice up the Plaza

what I’d called mellow alt. rock, others call it “slacker rock,” Mac prefers “jizz jazz.”

The new album was just released on Mac’s record label called simply Mac’s Record Label. He recorded it with vintage Japanese synthesizers and beat-up guitars in an apartment studio called Jizz Jazz Studios.

There’s a very local angle to all this: Mac’s successful career is intimately interconnected with former Eureka Michelle Cable of Panache Booking. Michelle is currently located in L.A. but she founded Panache in 1998 in Eureka, starting off with a zine. (I wrote some stuff for her.)

As they note in a company bio, “Panache has existed as many different entities in the music industry since then. We originated as a music zine, born out of the pure love of discovering bands that both inspired and shook your soul. Eventually Panache evolved into a North American booking agency when we started organizing tours for bands nationwide.

“After existing as an agency for over a decade, Panache expanded into music management to help our uniquely talented artists find the guidance they needed to develop their art into sustainable, healthy, long-lasting careers.”

They’ve been handling the successful Ty Segall since in 2012; Mac DeMarco joined their roster in 2013. There’s much more to her story, a move to NYC, a bad crash, recovery, etc. before coming home to California. They describe Panache as “a collective of independent minded music lovers who pride ourselves in thinking outside the box [as they] bridge the gap between DIY culture and commercial success while always keeping the artist’s best interest and integrity to heart.” (Mac and Panache are truly DIY personified.)

I’m sure this will be a cool show. Opening is Instagram phenom Melanie Faye who loves Jimi and rainbows. (She has 204K followers @melaniefaye.) Doors open at 8 p.m. Showtime is at 9 p.m. The concert is for ages 16-plus and they note, no chairs, “standing room only.”

In case you didn’t notice, it’s HSU’s graduation weekend. As part of the ongoing effort to make the Arcata Plaza a good family-friendly place for students to hang out, the Arcata Mainstreet folks and the Farmers Market are bringing music downtown. Friday, May 17, they have “world beat” music by JuDrum with Seed-N-Soil (plus a bounce house for the kids).

Then on Saturday, The Latin Peppers play for the market (10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.) And later (5 p.m.) the cool jazzy James Zeller Trio provide a soundtrack as Trinity River Vineyards offers tastes to students (21-plus), plus parents, family and maybe you.

There’s a mega hip hop show at the Jam Friday night, May 17, with Fatbol and Redwood Roots presenting local rappers Nac One, Hiway 101 and Little Kid Lost backed by DJ Just One, Goldylocks and B. Swizlo, plus live art by Julia Finkelstein, and the out-of-town headliner The Gift of Gab of Blackalicious fame (formerly with Chief Xcel).

Born Timothy Parker in SoCal, GoG went to school at U.C. Davis, where he fell in with the Aggie college radio crowd, aka the Solesides crew, alongside DJ Shadow, Lyrics Born, and Lateef the Truthspeaker recording for Quannum Projects as the ’90s became the Aughts. At this point you can find his fine rhymes at patreon.com/giftofgab.

The next night, Saturday, May 18 it’s “Checkered Flags” time at HumBrews as the Arcata Soul Party Crew: DJ Red, #JAY-MORG, Funky T Rex, King Maxwell and special guest, Drasar Monumental “cuttin’ a groove and makin’ moves for you and yours” for Soul Party 24, an “all vinyl recital, burnin’ rubber on the dancefloor.” As they say, “It’s got a good beat and you can dance to it.” So dance, dance, dance.

The local chamber choir A Company of Voices, now in its fifth year together, celebrates our glorious Spring with a concert Sunday, May 19 at Christ Episcopal Church (15th and H streets, Eureka) starting at 3 p.m.

“They’ll be performing a variety of a cappella selections from three centuries, plus Mendelssohn’s song Cycle of Spring (Der erste Frühlingstag), and Mozart’s Missa Brevis in G, accompanied by guest instrumentalists.

That hipster hangout the Miniplex (at Richard’s Goat) has a triple bill of alt. this and that of Monday, May 20, with Oposum Sun Trail (“trucker wannabees album release”) White Manna (“local space program dropouts”) and D3D (“California flight project meets Can”).

The Possums note, “We’re about to release some new music and hit the road in the next few weeks, stay tuned.” (They’re also playing at Stone Junction Saturday, May 18 before heading north to PDX etc.)

I actually got a secret link to the Strontium Highway album by the “cosmic american cinematic drone primitivists,” their follow-up to American Chemtrails and Death Raga Run-on Sentence, and since this is undoubtedly a run-on sentence, and I’m up to the end of my thousand word count, I’ll just say it sounds trippy. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of Arcata intends to adopt a Mitigated Negative Declaration of environmental impact for the following project in accordance with the California Environmental Quality Act:

Project Description: The City of Arcata proposes to test various living shoreline construction methods and materials at four different sites within the Arcata Marsh and Wildlife Sanctuary in order to observe sediment accretion and establishment of salt marsh vegetation. The Pilot Cell C method includes the use of large rock riprap, in addition to the coir logs, and is implemented with heavy equipment. No mechanized equipment will be operated in the bay. All three Pilot Cell approaches apply the same general dimensions, with a maximum length of 100 feet and a maximum width of 30 feet. Pilot project site 1 is 0.30 acres, pilot project site 2 is 0.12 acres, pilot project site 3 is 0.14 acres, and pilot site 4 is 0.22 acres. The total project area will be 0.78 acres.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call or visit this Internet Web site, using the file number assigned to this case 2018F022. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

Trinidad Memorial Lighthouse Ceremony Sunday

The 24th Annual Trinidad Memorial Lighthouse Ceremony will take place on Sunday, May 26 at 2 p.m. at the historic Memorial Lighthouse site at Edwards and Trinity streets. The ceremony honors those who have been lost or buried at sea and whose names are engraved at the site.

The ceremony will begin with bagpipe music by Matthew Marshall followed by the flag ceremony and Pledge of Allegiance led by McKinleyville Boy Scout Troop 99 and Girl Scouts from the Redwood Service Unit. Dana Hope, Trinidad Civic Club co-president, will preside and welcome guests. The Reverend Nancy Streufert, priest associate, from Saints Martha and Mary Episcopal Mission in Trinidad, will give the invocation and vocalist Samantha Day will sing Amazing Grace.

United States Coast Guard Humboldt Bay Deputy Sector Commander Clint Schlegel will address the audience followed by a reading of Alfred Lord Tennyson's poem, Crossing the Bar.

Trinidad City Mayor Pro-Tem Jack West will ring the Trinidad Head Lighthouse Keeper's cottage bell.

Janine Volkmar, Trinidad Civic Club recording secretary, will read the 247 memorial names, which will be followed by a USCG helicopter fly-over.

Saxophonist Matthew Brogdon will close the ceremony with Taps. The ceremony is approximately 35 minutes in length and will take place rain or shine. There is no available seating.

Wreaths created by Trinidad Civic Club members with flowers compliments of Sun Valley Floral Farms, will be placed near the Memorial Wall. Dj-Kev will provide sound. Jackie Tidwell will photograph the ceremony.

The Trinidad Memorial Lighthouse was built by the Trinidad Civic Club, with wide community support, as a replica of the 1871 Trinidad Head Lighthouse and was dedicated on June 26, 1949.

Earl and Neva Hallmark donated the land to house the decommissioned 1871 Fourth Order Fresnel oil lantern which was in use in the Trinidad Head Lighthouse until 1947, when a Fifth Order electric lens was installed (the electric lens has been on permanent loan to Trinidad Museum since 2013, when an LED light was installed at the Trinidad Head Lighthouse.)

The two-ton 1898 bronze fog bell also was placed at the historic Memorial Lighthouse site in 1949 when the fog warning system on Trinidad Head was automated.

Both the Memorial Lighthouse and the Fog Bell are presently located at the Trinidad Harbor on property owned by the Cher-ae Heights Indian Community of the Trinidad Rancheria. However, the Memorial Ceremony continues to take place at the former site.

For information about the event, call (707) 677-3816 or go to trinidad-civicclub.org.

Grover appointed to council

A full agenda at last week's Trinidad City Council meeting included the appointment of Dave Grover, who moved to Trinidad from upper New York state, to the City Council.

His appointment, filling the vacant seat of Jim Baker, will continue through the general election of November 2020.

He joins Mayor Steve Ladwig, Mayor Pro-Tem Jack West, former Mayor Dwight Miller and recently elected Tom Davies on the council. Mayor Ladwig said that vacancies on the Trinidad Trails and Short Term Rental Advisory Committees still need to be filled.

A highlight of the meeting was the colorful Trinidad Trails Power Point presentation by Humboldt State University environmental science students Natasha Braziel, Alexander Brown, Grant Olin and Andie White, who, supervised by their professor Dr. Yvonne Everett, assisted the Trails Committee on future planning recommendations including public access, maintenance, signage, public outreach and funding.

The students received a Proclamation from Mayor Ladwig and thanks from Trails Committee contributors Jack West, Tom Davies, Ben Morehead, Angela Zetter and Shirley Laos. The audience showed its appreciation with enthusiastic applause.

In other council business, a city budget meeting was announced for May 22 and a Trinidad Water System Production Study was presented by GHD engineer Steve Allen having to do with improvements that might be needed at the water plant, as well as testing Luffenholtz Creek flow capacity, in the event more water hook-ups are requested.

It was a preliminary report, with more study needed, however the initial report suggested that Luffenholtz Creek has sufficient capacity for some additional hook-ups. Many audience members asked good questions about the report.

One important matter not on the Discussion/Action Agenda was recent crime, vandalism and burglaries. Windows have been smashed at the HSU Marine Laboratory, Trinidad Museum, parked vehicles and at the 1871 Trinidad Head Lighthouse. Last week a home north of Trinidad was burglarized and the owner's car was stolen. If citizens see something, say something to Deputy Sheriff Luke Mathieson on duty at the Trinidad Police Office at 463 Trinity St.

Brandy, you're a fine girl. What a good pet you would be

Some of the cats and dogs that arrive at the Humboldt County Animal Shelter are in need of veterinary care due to illness or injury.

The shelter's funding covers the initial vaccinations, worming and flea medication for all the incoming animals, plus spays and neuters before the adoptable cats and dogs may leave the shelter.

Any larger expenses go through the shelter's Emergency Medical Fund (EMF), which is run by Friends for Life Animal Rescue, a local non-profit.

The shelter's Open House in December is the main fundraiser for this fund and it is supplemented by private donations.

At this point in the year the fund can become quite depleted if there have been orthopedic injuries, heartworm treatments or other emergency veterinary needs.

The shelter is always appreciative of donations to this fund as it can truly make the difference between life and death for some of the animals.

Some recent creative donations have come from yard sales and children's groups. If you or your friends would like to do a fundraiser, let us know and we will publicize it on the shelter's Facebook page! Lemonade Day is coming up next month; would any kids like to do a booth for the EMF?

One lovely dog that has benefitted from the EMF is our big girl Brandy. Brandy is a 7-year-old Rottweiler mix. Contrary to some public perceptions about this breed, Brandy is a very gentle, even slightly timid, dog.

She has quite a fan club among the volunteers, thanks to her very easy walking style and sweet personality. One volunteer even took her to their own vet to have her examined.

The shelter then arranged for her to have a benign tumor removed at the time of her spay and she is now doing great.

Brandy is a lovely companion and pays little attention to other dogs out walking at the same time.

Just recently we have found that she does have a fondness for the bigger boy dogs though! After ignoring several of the other dogs at the shelter, she had the chance to meet two of our larger male dogs and we got to see a new side of Brandy!

She was very friendly with them and even initiated some play with bowing and flirting. I think she would be happy in a home by herself or with another dog.

At seven, Brandy is considered a senior dog and eligible for reduced adoption fees.

She is not ready to hang up the leash yet and would love a home with someone who would enjoy taking her for walks. This nice big girl has lots of love to give.

Come meet Brandy at the Humboldt County Animal Shelter located at 980 Lycoming Ave. in McKinleyville, near the airport.

The shelter is open Monday through Friday. The most current listing of available dogs and cats can always be viewed at petharbor.com.
